Consider the following statement, and choose the appropriate answer:

For a computer like this, an operating system would be unnecessary baggage, driving up the development and manufacturing costs significantly and adding complexity where none is required

   a) An operating system would be unnecessary baggage for a computer.
   b) Operating systems drive up the development and manufacturing costs of computers significantly.
   c) Adding the complexity is not required.
   d) An operating system may not be required for some computers.